APG's emergency crews scramble to respond

While most Marylanders awaited the arrival of Hurricane Isabel from their homes, crews of emergency responders from Aberdeen Proving Ground's Directorate of Installation Operations scrambled to keep up with the trail of destruction left by the Category 2 hurricane as it moved through the area, Sept. 18 and 19.

The devastating storm resulted in the states of Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina being declared federal disaster areas and left millions of homes and businesses range areas belonging to the from North Carolina to New Jersey without power.

Robert Weaver, DIO maintenance chief, said nearly two dozen responders from both Aberdeen and Edgewood areas "ran from place to place," removing downed trees, restoring powerlines, and repairing once the storm took hold Thursday evening.

"We were keeping up with the power outages until the winds got so strong it was too dangerous to put our electricians out there," Weaver said.

Storm conditions peaked around 1 a.m. Friday morning and during that time, additional personnel assisted responders.

"After that we had to ride it out and wait to resume clean up operations."

He said that hardly an area of the installation was untouched.

The installation suffered extensive wind damage resulting in numerous power outages and flooding in low lying areas, particularly on Spesutie Island, around the boat club in building 36 on Plumb Point Loop and in several down-U.S. Army Aberdeen Test

Most power was restored by Sept. 20 except for areas where flooding was also a problem, Weaver said.

"Like the rest of the state we had our share of damage. It will take about another two weeks to totally clean up all the debris," he said. "Clean-up man hours will probably number in the thousands."

Federal employees face insurance premium hike in 2004

Tanya N. Ballard

GovExec.com

Health insurance premiums for federal employees will increase by an average of 10.6 percent next year, the Office of Personnel Management announced Sept. 16.

Government workers with self-only insurance coverage will pay an average of $5.01 more per pay period, or $130.26 annually. Workers with family coverage will pay an average of $11.95 more per pay period, or $310.70 annually. The Federal Employees Health Benefits Program (FEHBP) provides health care coverage for 8.3 million federal employees, retirees and their families.

The premium hike for 2004 is the fourth consecutive annual increase above 10 percent, for the FEHBP, but OPM Director Kay Coles James said the increase is one of the lowest in the country. According to a December 2002 General Accounting Office report (03-236), FEHBP premiums increased However, many plans have changed their benefits or an average of 6 percent a year from 1991 to 2002, a rate similar to those of other large health plans.

"Even with nationwide reports citing health insurance premium increases ranging as high as 18 percent, OPM has been able to keep its average premium increase at 10.6 percent, making many choices in the consumer and market-driven FEHB [program] among the most reasonably priced in the nation," James said. "I believe the FEHB program is a model of efficiency and effectiveness."

OPM said increased costs for prescription drugs, greater use of medical services and an aging workforce led to the double-digit increase.

Federal employees and retirees can change their health insurance plans during open season, which runs from Nov. 10 to Dec. 8.

The number of health plans will rise to 205, with 17 new insurance plans joining the FEHBP in 2004. premiums for 2004, leading some union and congressional leaders to renew the call for increasing the government's contribution to federal employees' health insurance premiums.

"Other large employers in the public and private sector contribute between 85 and 100 percent of the premiums for their employees," said American Federation of Government Employees President John Gage. "Yet, because of the current formula used to calculate federal employees' costs, the federal government pays only 70 percent of health care premi-

Soldier Show coming to APG Nov. 1

Yvonne Johnson APG News

The 2003 Army Soldier Show will make its annual stop at Aberdeen Proving Ground Nov. 1 and 2 at the Post Theater. One performance for active-duty military only will be held 2 p.m. on Nov. 1, and 7 p.m. on Nov. 2 will be open to the

The theme of this year's show is "Legacy," and refers to the legacy of Sgt. Irving Berlin, who conceived and directed the first soldier show on Broadway in 1918. The U.S. Army Soldier Show is a high-energy MTV-style 90minute live musical review showcasing the talents of active duty soldiers from throughout the Army who are selected by audition to perform for six month.

New cast members are selected each year. Aspiring soldiers submit application packages that include videotapes, biographies, photographs, and letters of recommendation from their commanders. Soldiers must have an outstanding record in their units as well as demonstrate musicality, movement, stage presence, and versatility. The Soldier Show artistic staff, U.S. Army Community and Family Support Center directors, soldier peers, and selected senior Army leaders form an audition panel and finalists audition at Fort Belvoir, Va.

In addition, finalists must pass physical training and drug tests and uniform inspections. Audio and lighting technician applicants are selected based on military and civilian theater experience and training, recommendations, and military record.

Once selected to the cast, soldiers are attached to the CFSC Army Entertainment Detachment for duty with the US Army Entertainment Division for the duration of the show. The Soldier Show operates as a deployable military unit under the military leadership of the detachment first sergeant and under the artistic leadership of the artistic director. Soldiers are expected to adhere to military physical fitness, deportment and appearance standards. Soldiers in the cast and crew are assigned specific military responsibilities and show duties commensurate with their rank in addition to their functions and responsibilities within the show, such as vocal director, dance captain, wardrobe/costume manager, technical crew chief, and stage manager. Between May and November, the Soldier Show cast and crew may travel more than 25,000 miles by bus and air to stage 100 performances at installations in the United States, Guam and the Republic of Korea for Army audiences totaling over 120,000. The modern version of the Army Soldier Show originated in 1983 as an outgrowth of several soldier shows existing in various Army commands. 1998, the Army celebrated the 80th anniversary of the debut of the first Army Soldier Show in 1918 and the 15th anniversary of the modern Army Soldier Show. How to Audition for the U.S. Army

Soldier Show

Application deadline is Dec. 31 for the following year.

Eligibility: The U.S. Army Soldier Show is open to all active duty soldiers with at least one year in service remaining after December. Army reserve component soldiers also may apply but must be activated for duty if selected. Application packages performers, technicians and drivers must include a commander's letter of intent to release; a personnel records brief; one three-quarter length DA photo and a current

In addition, performer packages must include an entertainment resume and one VHS performance video, 10 minutes in length maximum; technicians, must provide a technical resume and references and/or portfolio; and drivers must produce references and licenses or

Video tips for performers:

Make sure you can be seen and heard. Bad lighting and bad sound make it difficult to judge your talent. Test the location by taping someone else first, then watching the video. Change locations if it is unacceptable.

Introduce yourself. Tell the committee who you are, where you're from and what's important to you. Introduce the song(s) you will be singing. Personality is nearly as important as talent.

Use musical accompaniment. Whether a piano, Karaoke tapes, a guitar, or a band, music adds life to a performance. A cappella singing is risky and is rarely successful. Be original. The committee hears many versions of the national anthem and other popular songs. Pick songs that are recognizable, but also demonstrate your unique talent(s).

Show variety. If you play an instrument, dance, or sing everything from country to opera, do it. Demonstrate your versatility.

Get help. If there is an entertainment branch at your installation, ask for coaching in movement, presence, and projection, and for help in selecting audition materials. At some installations, staff members may tape your audition for you. Entertainment is a Morale, Welfare, and Recreation activity listed under the Directorate of Community Activities, or Directorate of Community and Family Activities.

Review your tape. Make sure what you send represents you at your best. It's the only view we get of you. Send application packages to:

TRICARE covers full-time students through age 23

Office of the Secretary of Defense

As parents prepare their college-age children for the new school year and they move from their home region, TRICARE coverage or enrollment changes should be Children will continue to be TRICARE eligible as long as they are a full-time students until 23 years of age. Parents also need to contact DEERS and show proof of the child's full-time schedule for the child to remain eligible for TRICARE benefits. Parents should research if TRICARE option, Prime, Extra or Standard, is the best choice.

TRICARE Prime, a popular choice among military families, may or may not be the best choice for college-bound children, depending on individual health care needs and location.

Full-time students may need to transfer TRICARE enrollment to the TRICARE region where the school is located. When a child's college or university is located in an area where TRICARE Prime is offered, he or she may continue TRICARE Prime coverage. The Split enrollment option offers the opportunity to have a child enrolled in one region while the rest of the family lives and may be enrolled in a different region.

To transfer or change a child's TRI-CARE Prime enrollment, the sponsor must complete and sign an enrollment application or change request form and send it to the regional managed care support contractor in the child's new region. Children will have continuous TRICARE Prime coverage while traveling from one region to another where TRICARE Prime is available. Children should stay enrolled in their home region until they arrive in the new region. The transfer from the old region to the new one is effective the date the transfer request is received by the contractor in the new region.

Retiree families with up-to-date family enrollment fees will not pay additional fees when children transfer their enrollment to another region. Children will be allowed two transfers per year between TRICARE regions, as long as the second transfer is back to the region of the original enrollment.

Active duty families may transfer their child's enrollment as often as necessary. Students' enrollment in TRICARE Prime will automatically be renewed at the end of the one-year enrollment period unless you decline the renewal offer.

If a child must be disenrolled from TRICARE Prime because of a move to a location where Prime is not offered, he or she is not locked out of future TRICARE Prime enrollment. However, disenrollment should be done immediately to avoid paying higher costs under TRICARE Prime's point-of-service (POS) option. POS charges are the charges beneficiaries may incur if they receive care without proper authorization from their TRICARE Prime primary care manager (PCM). For more information on POS charges see http://www.tricare.osd.mil/factsheets/index. cfm?fx=showfs&file_name=POS%2Ehtm.

Parents also have the option of purchasing a TRICARE supplement (secondary to TRICARE) or student health insurance (primary to TRICARE) if the

While the basic TRICARE benefit is the same throughout the TRICARE regions, there may be some differences in authorization or referral procedures required by the TRICARE contractor in the child's new region. A BCAC at the local MTF where the student will be enrolled, or the local TSC can help the student with any questions that may arise. Parents who have a child going to college this year should be sure they understand the rules in the new TRICARE region pertaining to pre-authorization for care.

For more information, call Ellen Bradley, TRICARE beneficiary counseling and assistance coordinator (BCAC) at 410-278-1719, Kirk U.S. Army Health Clinic, or a TRICARE service center (TSC) representative at 888-999-5195. They can assist in the decision as to what may be best.

YEAR PROGRAM ACCEPTS NOMINATIONS

In January 2001, Child and Youth Services launched a new program called 'Youth of the Year,' in cooperation with the Boys and Girls Clubs of America. Since that time, the program has undergone changes and revisions based on lessons learned, and now has a new look.

The program is all about teen leadership, character and service. The official nomination period runs September through December. The program is competitive in nature because teens will be competing for top honors at their youth center and a chance to receive recognition, scholarship money, and the honor of representing APG at the state competition in Annapolis, Md.

that honor over the past two years.

For students currently in the 9th, 10th or 11th grade in high school, maintain a "C" average or above, are a member of the youth center, consider themselves to be a leader among their peers and who likes a contest and the challenge of hard work and competition, this is an opportunity to check out.

To apply, visit a local youth center and pick up an APG "Youth of the Year" information and official nomination packet at the front desk. Youth Services staff will be glad to answer questions and help get the process started.

In December, a Youth of the Year panel will convene for the purpose of reviewing all completed official nomination forms and interviewing each teen applicant to Operations Center personnel tasked DIO operating elements to respond to problems during the storm and take such corrective actions that could be performed safely and quickly to keep the installation functioning.

"Trees were toppling and closing roads so fast, it became necessary to suspend operations in the lower end of the Edgewood Area south of "O" Field for fear of not being able to rescue electrical teams that might become stranded in the dark," Decker said.

"This same situation occurred in the Aberdeen Area on Michaelsville Road which flooded and had several trees down blocking the roadways."

Decker said that personnel were cleared from Spesutie Island to prevent their being trapped by flooding and loss of

"It is important to point out that the DIO personnel who helped keep the installation operating had families that were experiencing wind, water and electrical problems, like everyone else," Decker said. "Many are still without electrical power."

Some of the incidents DIO personnel responded to:

- A tree fell on an automobile on Nautical Court in Bayside Village resulting in minor damage.
- Housing occupants in Plumb Point Loop, Patriot Village, and the AA Mobile Home Courts were without electrical power for a majority - of the night. • Winds damaged a cover over an exhaust fan on the EA dining facility at building E-4225.

Team Unified repeats as CWF softball champs

Takes must win from AASF, 24 - 20

Story and photos by Yvonne Johnson APG News

Team Unified, the defending Civilian Welfare Fund-Edgewood Area softball champion, rallied from a stunning defeat to beat the Army Aviation Support Facility, 24-20, and repeat as post champions during a do-or-die battle on Capa Field, Sept. 11.

Unified coach Bill Semiatin, who works for the Program Manager, Nuclear, Biological, Chemical Contaminant Avoidance, said he knew the team would regroup after its 28-22 loss the day before.

"We came up short in that slugfest but we came back," Semiatin said, adding that it this team has taken the title.

Both games saw impressive home runs shots, good defensive plays and timely hitting, Semiatin said.

He praised the contributions of left fielder Rob Westbrook, right center fielder Steve Kaminsky and third baseman Kevin Puckace who each had

During the action on Sept. 10, AASF, a team of Maryland Army National guardsmen and contractors playing in the losers bracket, needed two wins over Unified to claim the

"We've got a decent lead now," AASF coach Mike Ormond said as the team went up 8-2 in the fourth inning. "Hopefully we can close this was the third time in four years one out and let it carry over into tomorrow."

Between the two teams, there were nearly a dozen home runs, not the least of which came off the bat of AASF shortstop Ron Wilson, who was named the games' Most Valuable player.

Wilson hit two home runs, driving in five runs in the fifth inning to put his team up, 25-

"I was just trying to keep my team in the game and give us a chance to win," Wilson said of his performance.

Both teams exhausted the 5homerun rule, which penalizes a team with an out for each home run beyond the limit.

"It's the first time I ever saw both teams run out of home runs," said umpire Gary Sappington.

Several fans also were on hand to witness the slugfest.

Ron Billings, the father of AASF third baseman Daryl Billings, a contractor with Aero Energy, visiting from West Virginia, said he took a week off for his birthday to come visit his son and watch him play.

"He's played ever since he was a kid," Billings said. "I tried to get him to try out for the [Baltimore Orioles]. He'd have made it too."

Daryl Billings laughed off his father's remark, saying, "I'm just glad to be out here playing for a championship. These are all real players because none of us have to be here and all of us love to play."

SBCCOM's Kevin Puckace agreed.

"This league is fun, it's a good way to meet people, clean fun, and good exercise," Puckace said.

He added that they hoped to "target new blood" for the league to grow.

"New hires are more than welcome to come out and join us or just watch the games. They don't know what they're missing."

Team Unified first baseman Aaron Speight rounds third base heading for home as his teammate, shortstop Earl Heaps runs for third courtesy of another teammates' RBI double during game one of the CWF softball championship at Capa Field, Sept. 10. CWF won the championship, 24-20 over the Army Aviation Support Facility, Sept. 11.
